

KYLE MACLACHLAN

ACCLAIMED ACTOR KYLE MACLACHLAN, a native of Yakima, Washington, has brought indelible charm and quirky sophistication to some of film and television's most iconic roles. Known for his nuanced performances, he brings the same depth and passion to his other creative pursuit: winemaking.

In 2005, Kyle began making wine in Washington State to stay connected to his family, and this passion soon blossomed into a rewarding second career as the owner and vintner of Pursued by Bear in Walla Walla. The winery's name is a clever nod to one of Shakespeare's most famous stage directions—"Exit, pursued by a bear"—from The Winter's Tale, honoring Kyle's theatrical roots. Through his close collaboration with renowned Washington winemaker Dan Wampfler, Kyle has immersed himself in every aspect of the winery, discovering firsthand the parallels between acting and winemaking—both requiring patience, creativity, and respect for the process. Along the way, he has become a true evangelist for Washington State's world-class vineyards and wines.

On the screen, Kyle is best known for his performance as FBI Special Agent Dale Cooper in David Lynch's groundbreaking series, Twin Peaks. He made his feature film debut in the science fiction classic Dune, followed by another collaboration with Lynch in the critically acclaimed film Blue Velvet. A few of his other favorite film performances include Ray Manzarek in The Doors, Cliff Vandercave in The Flintstones, and the voice of the Dad in Pixar's Inside Out. On television, Kyle has starred in Desperate Housewives, Sex & The City, Portlandia, and many more. Recent work includes his new acclaimed podcast, What Are We Even Doing?, and his roles as Donald Washburn in FX's The Lowdown and Hank MacLean in Amazon's wildly popular Fallout series.

Kyle is a steadfast believer in giving back and a longtime supporter of such organizations as God's Love We Deliver, Ovarian Cancer Research Fund, UNICEF, and the Entertainment Industry Foundation's Stand Up to Cancer program. He resides in Los Angeles with his wife, Full Picture Founder & CEO Desiree Gruber, and their son, Callum, along with their two dogs, Bailey and Elvis.
